From Sunrise to Sunset at Harbor...

The time is 5:17 a.m. as janitor Ed Gathagan stokes the fire for the boilers. The pace picks up at 6:15 as the school buses start to roll out of the garage.

Administration and office staff hustle through the doors to start the day at 7:00. As the first bell rings, students (a few of them running) hurry to get situated and begin a new day of surprises. Period after period goes by, and the homework piles on as the final bell rings at 2:00.

After that final bell most students are free to go home, but others stay for after school sports or extracurriculars. The time now is 7:00 p.m., and the last practice is winding to a close. The only thing left to do now is clean-up, close-up, and then lock-up. So . . . Charlie Jones, the last person in the building for the day, checks the windows and locks all the doors and is out by 10:00 p.m.

The following pages display the sea of faces that sail through Harbor each and every day...from sunrise to sunset.

-MacKenzie Salo

Excited to finally be out of school after a long day, Thia Williams, Charmarie Wells, and Loteia Moore wait for their bus to arrive.

Fighting for those last couple of feet, Gregg Kunes strides for a brilliant finish.

A Night Under the Stars

A clear, crisp night under the stars.

The Homecoming game against Jefferson was literally the perfect setting as fans watched football captains Frank Perry, Jeff Moore and Tim Mackynen crown the 1997 Homecoming Queen. The star of the night, Holly Simon said, "I was very surprised but I was greatly honored to be crowned queen."

The traditional assembly in the gym introduced the Homecoming court. The court included Amanda Brayman, Jenna Bellomo, Heather Carter, Jamie Gentene, Missy Gillespie, Megan Kaydo, Tanya Niemi, Natalie Manyo, and Yoko Sakamoto.

Senior women worked several nights on decorations to fit the theme Wonderful Tonight. Star 104's Gary Kune provided a variety of music at Kent State University. The melody of "Celebration" carried the seniors out on the floor during their final dance. Natalie Manyo stated "It was my last Homecoming. I was glad to spend it with my friends."

For their very first Homecoming dance, the fresh-men had their moment to get down and get funky to the sounds of Sesame Street's theme song "Sunny Days."

A first high school memory for some, Homecoming will be among the last of many happy recollections for others.

Not all guys are lucky enough to escort a queen candidate around the gym. Senior Bill Savarise admires his Homecoming date Heather Carter.

Celebrating their last Homecoming, longtime friends Valle Jarvis and Kristy Millberg share a sisterly embrace.

The parade down Lake Ave. is a tradition for any Queen candidate. Natalie Manyo waits for her turn in the parade.

Sailing down the South Pacific

The stress of learning lines, the anxiety of the opening curtain and the applauding of the audience are just a few of the things that bring students to do the annual musical. Two underclassmen enjoyed the additional challenge of taking on the leading roles.

Capturing the audience with their love for each other, Nick Stroup and Tessa White played Emile deBecque and Nellie Forbush. "It was more work than I expected. I learned a lot about my self and what I'm capable of doing and not doing," White stated. As for Stroup, he thought, "I really didn't have time to be stressed. I knew I had to do it, so I did."

The show had an abundance of male roles such as U.S. Marines, Navy seamen, and Seabee GI's. Male actors, unaccustomed to using make-up, called on mothers to do it for them. One special GI, Mitch Mucci, got the opportunity to get in touch with a different side of his personality. He had to dress in drag, complete with grass skirt and Madonna-like chest cones, for the Thanksgiving Variety Show scene. The audience roared its appreciation.

As for the stage crew, they had a stress completely different from the actors. Stage manager, Valerie Sircelj, admitted to the stress, but pointed out, "I did have a lot of fun. Actually, it was a learning experience because it enhanced my image of theater." With a crew of 6, Sircelj had a great time arranging props, running lights, and moving scenery.

On the whole South Pacific was a success for everyone. Senior Molly Sorohan concluded, "Doing a show can bring people together like nothing else can."

Dissension Among the Ranks

Excitement built as the school planned for the class tournaments and students signed up to participate in the challenging events. Each class chose a theme, and the gym took on a new look. Freshman chose the "The Nerds;" sophomores decorated in Dreamland; juniors, the Army; and seniors, Totally 80's decor.

Though the seniors took the lead in the first day of challenges, the Class of 2000 came on strong the next day to win five events and capture the victory as Class Tournament Champions—the first time sophomores had won that title in tournament history! The junior boys and freshmen girls also claimed wins in their basketball games, so no class went home empty handed.

New events were added to the two crazy days of fun! Those included a tricycle and skateboard race, the hula hoop-it-up race, clothes change relay, and wheelbarrow race. Along with usual basketball and tug-of-war, students found the tournaments to be uproarious fun!

Dreadlocks and chains were extreme fashions that Adam Gecking often displayed.

(Below) Long chains and baggy pants were stylish this year. Lisa Rush models these fashions.

Stylish red streaks as well as dark roots on the head of freshman Melinda Phillips bobbed through the halls.

Wearing Out the Day

Rring. As the first bell of the year rang, many students as well as many fashions roared their way into the building.

Some trends were new like virtual pets (electronic toys that need round the clock attention) and some were decades old. Bell bottoms, for example.

"Comfort," according to Andy Hull, was crucial. The trend at Harbor definitely seemed to be comfortable clothing. Adidas clothing and overalls ruled the halls.

Body piercings such as tongue and lip rings also came into play, and these were no longer rare things to see.

The diversity and freedom to be an individual and strut your stuff united the students at Harbor and reflected in their clothing choices.

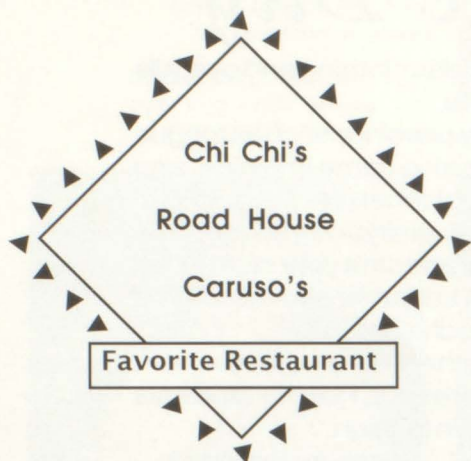

Whether the trends were from the past or present, Harbor students were always in fashion.

Springtime in Paris

Un Soir des Memoires

Once upon a time on the Seine River in Paris, King William Savarise and his queen Heather Carter reigned with their court—Sean Allds and Laura Savarese; Everett Beeman and Jennifer Camodeca; Brad Best and Lindsay Ambridge; Rob Lawwill and Kristy Millberg; Jack Lemmon and Jamie Gentene; Matt Sutton and Alison Guerini; and Scott Whitney and Valle Jarvis—over the Junior/Senior Prom.

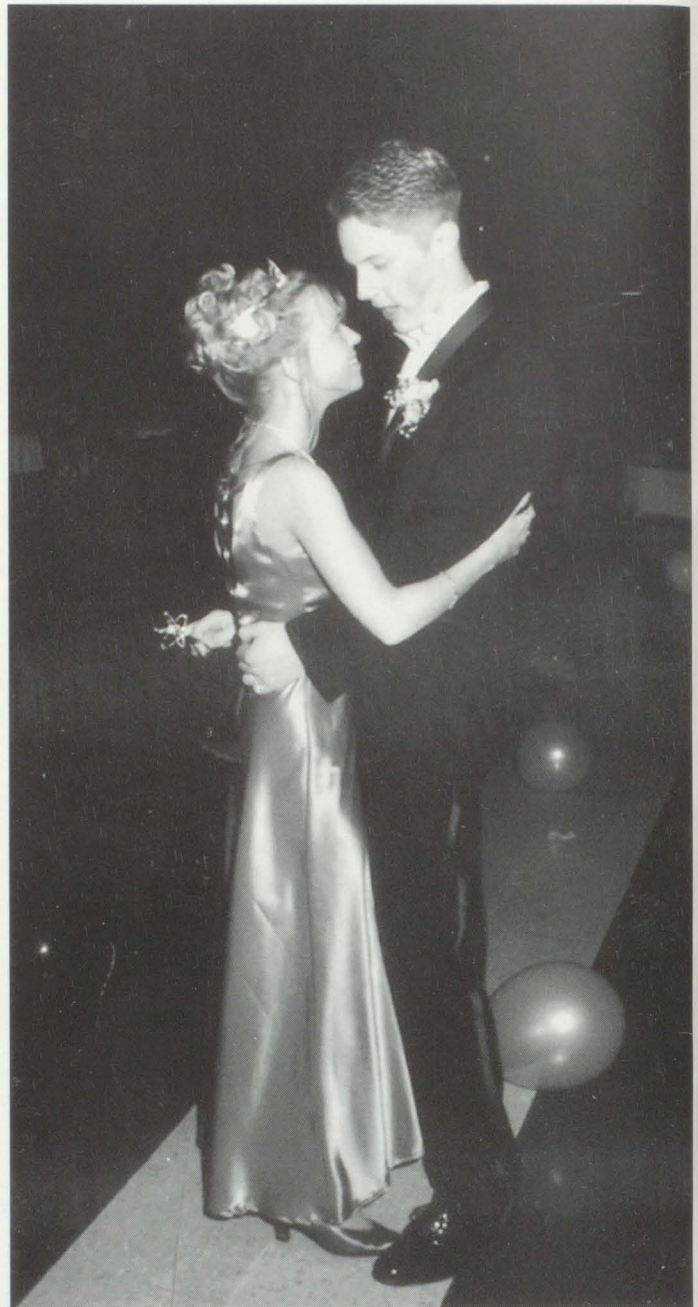

As the lights of the Eiffel Tower flickered in the background, couples swayed to the sounds of "My Heart Will Go On," "You're Still the One" and "All My Life" played by DJ Todd Kent. Dancing was preceded by an elegant meal prepared by Monsieur Meola from Meola's Catering.

Many memorable moments were captured by the 190 attendees. Senior Mike Gardner commented, "The decorations created a wonderful atmosphere, I'm really not a dance person but I still had a great time." "The best part about prom was dancing, and the decorations made it very romantic," recalled Michelle Sassler about the magical evening.

ROCKING THE BOAT

What were the most exciting and memorable parts of high school?

Not research papers, not the proficiency tests, and definitely not the long,
boring lectures!
It was the sports!

Nothing else brings more memories and excitement to the school quite like athletic events.
The slam dunks, the homeruns, the holes-in-one, and the NEC Championships, what else was more exciting?

The last second victories and the heartbreaking defeats of the year's sporting events were captured on the following pages.

As the sun set on the Harbor, we created a vivid memory that will last for years!

FORE!!!!!!

Our golf team had a very hard, very strenuous year. Although they had a stormy regular season against other NEC competitors, many players were awarded various honors. Senior Matt Williams won 1st team All-NEC for the third straight season. Also, freshman phenom Mike DeWitt won 2nd team All-NEC Honors and just missed qualifying for the district match by one stroke.

At the Fall Awards Banquet, senior Doug Meschko was awarded a trophy for having the lowest stroke average on the team. Senior golfer Brad Best had this to say about the season:

"Although we had a rough season, we had a lot of fun."

The majority of the golfers felt the Geneva match was the most interesting incident. Jason Parker and Doug Meschko will always remember the match with Geneva! Golf rivalry was at a new height. Another interesting incident was against Conneaut when Eric Blenman broke a $300 club on his second swing. Blenman comments, "I can't believe I broke it!"

As the season putted to a close, the golfers left the green with many fond memories.

If enthusiasm could win matches, the girls tennis team would have been 11-0. The team, being only in their 2nd year, had a rough season. Having many set backs which included a late August start, 5 returning veterans, 6 rookies (some of whom never picked up a racquet) and a new coach, the team Navigated New Waters.

With a big win against Edgewood, the girls lifted their spirits and came back and to rally against Harvey. With only 2 wins on the season the girls achieved a lot of personal goals. Senior veteran Natalie Rich achieved her goal by advancing to the third round in sectionals. Mandy Mosier stated "my personal goal was to beat my record for the longest match. I achieved this when I played Harvey."

At the sports program Coach Montanaro named Mandy Mosier -MVP, and Stephaine Pasanen -MIP. Silly awards were given to Mia DiAngelo who received the Talker Award, Mindy Marino the Calm and Cool Award and Mandy Mosier the Golden Brush Award.

CRUISING TO A SMOOTH FINISH

The Lady Mariner Volleyball Team started out rough, but ended with a calm finish. With an overall record of ten wins and fifteen losses, the girls proved successful in tournament action. The team took a disappointing regular season and finished with a bang to become Sectional Champs.

In the tournament the second game stood out in the players' minds. The Lady Mariners played with intensity to overcome two regular season losses and beat rival Ashtabula. The win clinched the sectional championship. Senior Jamie Gentene felt, "We developed as a team throughout the season and we proved not only to ourselves but to others that we can play as a team and be successful. We really shocked ourselves in the tournament!"

Five members received recognition at the end of the season for their performance. Junior Amy Balmford won first team All County and All Area along with second team All NEC. Also, fellow junior Lauren Sposito was second team All County and Special Mention All Area and All NEC. Seniors Jamie Gentene and Tanya Niemi were Special Mention All County and All NEC. Captain Amanda Brayman was Special Mention All County and All Area. -Robin Campbell

RISING STARS

It's the last day of school.
Ahhh.
Time to relax, right?
WRONG!

If you're a football player, you've got next season to worry about. From June until August the Mariners were busy preparing for their first game. A lot of hardwork, sweat and energy went into those three months of lifting, conditioning and two-a-days. "They [two-a-days] were the hardest two weeks of my life!" exclaimed freshman Craig Kerneklian.

Though grueling, the summer practices paid off. The Mariners had a winning season of (6-4) (6-2 NEC) earning them a second place tie in the NEC. Junior quarterback Kenny Vanyo earned first team All-State punter. The team defeated Edgewood to claim the Golden Anchor Award. They also won the City Series Championship by defeating the Warriors and our long-time rivals, the Ashtabula Panthers.

The landmark Harbor-Bula game was held on Halloween. A bonfire and parade held the night before the game boosted the team's spirit and led them to a 31-23 victory!

Jeff Moore out-performed the other contestants and was later crowned queen.

Escaping a tackle, junior Otis Sandidge runs for a first down while junior Jason Branscome makes a key block against an Edgewood defender.

1-2-3 LET'S CHEER!

As the summer heat blazed down, the dedicated Mariner cheerleaders practiced daily at Thomas Jefferson Elementary. In order to prepare for the upcoming football season, returning cheerleaders helped the freshmen learn cheers, chants, and dances. Freshman captain Christi Gildersleeve was excited about her first year of cheering. "At first it was really hard learning all of the cheers and dances, especially at 8:00am! Once we got the hang of it all, everything went smoothly."

School started and the season was on it's way. For ten Friday nights, through rain, thunder, and lightning, the cheerleaders were there to bring spirit and support to the team. The smell of the muddy field, the roar of the crowd during a touchdown, and the beating drums of the Mariner Magic marching band were just a few memories of the football season.

Painting signs, pep assemblies, carnation sales, competition, and classes at the Chalk Box were other activities that the cheerleaders participated in. Preparing for the competition at Jefferson High began early in the season. With the help and expertise of the new advisor Amy Bernower, the girls improved greatly throughout the year. Bernower stated, "I am proud of the girls. They have been dedicated and put in a lot of hard work. It hasn't been easy."

TURBULENT SEASON

Memories of the disappointing season were forgotten and replaced with those of breaking bottles and liberating traffic cones. Runner, Christina Kachersky created her own memory as she raced to a wonderful season finale with her second trip to state. When asked about the best part of the season, Kachersky stated, "The team unity, though we didn't always have a team. It was cool." With only six boys and five girls the teams were small and also young. Four juniors, five sophomores and one freshman pushed through a pessimistic season.

Though neither team won a race, the teams had a memorable season. Broken bottles, "borrowed" golf carts, missing letters and "gator" ball were a few of the funny memories the boys will cherish. "The best memory was at University when we "borrowed" a golf cart and drove it around for a half hour," stated Gregg Kunes.

Orange traffic cones, underwater workouts and butterflies will always remind the girls of the 1997 season. Though the girls struggled to compile a team, the close-knit four managed to acquire many good laughs.

At the fall sports banquet Most Valuable Runner awards went to Gregg Kunes and Christina Kachersky. Most Improved Runner awards went to Joe Tredent and Jessica Robertson. Kachersky also earned All-NEC First Team. The team ended the season with a slide show and team dinner. Every individual on the team contributed to the fun times and made the season a memorable one.

NOTHING BUT NET

SWISH...was a sound commonly heard at Harbor Basketball games. Whether home or away, fans packed gymnasiums to the rafters to watch the intense action that took place on the court.

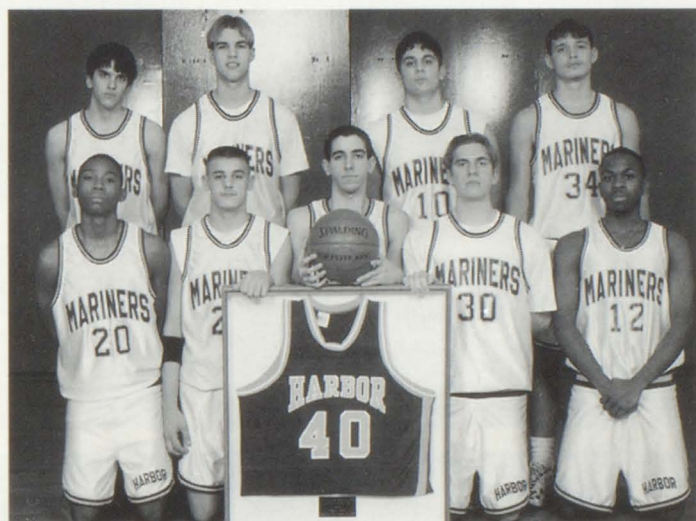

Seven seniors, 4 juniors, 1 sophomore and coach Dan Craft lead the Mariners to another triumphant season. Co-captains Todd Estok, Jeff Moore, and Kenny Vanyo proved to be great assets to the team. As leading scorer Estok reached a milestone in his basketball career by surpassing the 1,000 point mark with 1,102 total points scored. Estok earned the offensive MVP award for his outstanding scoring ability. Defensively, Moore led the team in steals and earned the defensive MVP award. Vanyo worked the boards and led the team with 208 rebounds. For his effort and hard work Vanyo received the MIP award.

Throughout the season the entire team worked together to produce many upsets. In the anticipated Harbor-Bula game the Mariners came from behind to upset the Panthers 75-66 at Ball Gymnasium. Traveling to Harvey, the Mariners almost reached the 100 point plateau but came up short scoring 99 points in a 28 point victory over the Red Raiders.

Harbor closed out the regular season with a (14-5) (11-5 NEC) record giving them a third place finish in the NEC.

SPIRIT ON THE RISE

The HHS Mariner cheerleaders had an excellent season, cheering the team onto a 3rd place NEC finish. With two games a week and grueling "Bernower" practices, the girls were busy throughout the season. Locker signs, pep assemblies, and scrapbooks often kept the cheerleaders schedules full.

Preparation for the Jefferson High competition started early in the basketball season and paid off in the end. As first year competitors, the freshmen squad placed first, bringing home another trophy. The junior varsity and varsity squads combined to take fourth place, missing third by two points. Overall, the competition was successful. "The girls did well. I knew they could pull it off if they just concentrated and stayed focused," stated advisor Amy Bernower.

At the end of the season, awards were given to the cheerleaders for their dedication and hard work. The MIC (most improved cheerleader) award went to Nichole Schultz. Seniors Megan Kaydo and Angel Schultz shared the MVC (most valuable cheerleader) award. Tiffany Mosier accepted the most spirited award.

(center) "Get off of me!" says Lauren Sposito while using her elbows to get her Madison opponents away from the ball.

"You are not going to score!" thinks Nicole Rodriguez as she moves in to stop her opponent.

A young team with plenty of injuries made for a rough season. The Lady Mariner basketball team did not end up where they had hoped. Finishing the season with an overall record of three wins and eighteen losses, the girls finished second to last in the N.E.C.

With only seniors Natalie Manyo and Jamie Gentene, the Mariners looked to younger players. Sophomore Julie Parker led the team as point guard and fellow sophomore Nicole Rodriguez played the power forward. Juniors Amy Balmford and Lauren Sposito, who led the team in scoring, filled the other forward positions. Gentene took over at off guard after Manyo suffered a knee injury.

At the awards banquet Manyo and Gentene received senior awards. Sposito also received second team All N.E.C. and All County. Rodriguez earned special mention All County. "The season was frustrating, but it gave the younger kids lots of experience so next year we can be better," comments Sposito. With such a young team, one thing is certain, the upcoming seasons will bring calmer weather.

WRESTLERS SET SAIL

Struggling through a tough regular season, the Mariner matmen set sail to have a more productive post-season. NEC's were held at Madison High School on Feb. 13 and 14. Freshman Tyler Fleming, juniors Justin Umholtz and Jason Branscome, and senior Tony Young placed at the annual tournament.

Though not placing, juniors Matt Lynagh and Chris Manes advanced to the second round of competition. First year wrestler Andrew Cox stated, "I really enjoyed my first year wrestling; I hope next year is even better!"

Fleming and Umholtz both placed fourth. "I did it; it felt great!" exclaimed Umholtz of his fourth place finish. Junior Jason Branscome came home with a second place finish and 4-year veteran Tony Young brought home the bacon with a first place finish.

Young's success at the NEC's allowed him to advance to districts, which were held at Ashtabula High School. He placed within the top five sending him to the state tournament in Dayton, OH. In Dayton, he capitalized his wrestling career with an eighth place finish.

THE KINGS OF DIAMONDS

The crack of the bat, the roar of the crowd, the smell of dirt. It's the purest of all sports, it's America's pastime. It's baseball. And Harbor's varsity team exemplified exactly what baseball should be.

The Mariners went above and beyond any goals they set for themselves before the season started. The team had seven seniors returning and promised to be great, but nobody expected their production to be so great both as a team and individually.

As a team they destroyed the former homerun record of 18 hitting 35. They won the NEC, the Sectional Championship and were District runners-up.

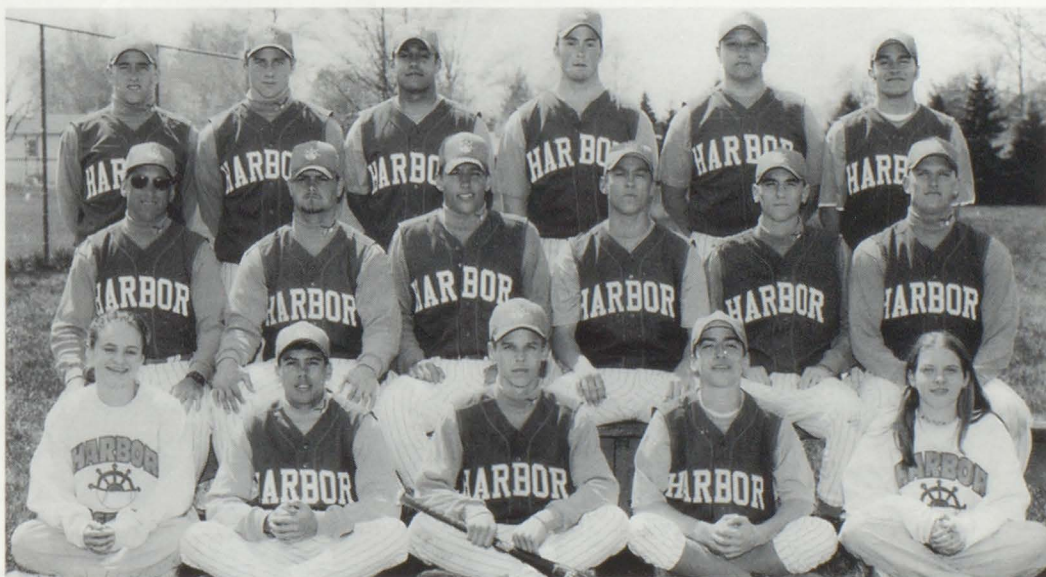

Senior Scott Whitney blasted 10 homeruns beating the old record of 6, and hit three dingers in one game. Following suit, senior Dan Mozingo hit 9 homeruns finishing just behind Whitney. Along with making his mark at the plate, he was an intimidating presence on the mound. Mozingo struck out 139 batters beating his former mark of 120. He had an 8-0 record with a 0.13 ERA.

When the opposition did not have to face Mozingo they still had seniors Rob Lawwill, Doug Meschko, and Scott Whitney to deal with. Lawwill had a 6-2 record, 81 K's and a 1.64 ERA. Whitney and Meschko also had outstanding seasons.

The success of the team was unexpected yet appreciated by head coach Dan Craft. "We expected the team to have success, but we never expected the amount of homeruns hit by the team. I knew we had good hitters and we would have a great season. This was the best team I ever coached. They had good chemistry. They all played by the rules. The bench played well, Doug Meschko really stepped up. They played hard all the time and played hard until the end. I really enjoyed coaching them."

THREE UP. THREE DOWN.

After a rocky start the lady Mariner's softball team rallied to win their last 6 games of the season. "We made an amazing comeback!" exclaimed first-baseman Lauren Sposito.

The hardwork and determination late in the season payed off. The lady Mariners had a winning record of (12-11) (8-8 NEC). Sophomore pitcher Danise Mozingo earned all 12 of the wins.

Mozingo also helped her cause with a 3-run homerun in the game against Cardinal. "We never gave up. We pulled together as a team and we started winning." stated senior catcher Mindy Marino. In the Harbor-Ashtabula game Marino launched a grand slam homerun over the left field fence to lead the Mariners to a 13-9 victory over the Panthers [Smoke] Bombs Away!

It is said that winning isn't everything and for the boys tennis team winning wasn't everything. With two rookie players and one rookie coach, the team struggled through a difficult season, but still managed to have some fun. When the guys weren't lighting up the courts with their fierce forehands; they were lighting up coach J.C. Montanaro's car with smoke bombs. "That was definitely a SportsCenter highlight" said rookie Chad Dale.

With all joking aside, the team did work hard. Playing first doubles, Eric Blenman and Matt Williams had an overall record of 9-1, but were unable to compete in sectionals due to Williams' injury. In second doubles, Chad Dale and Andy Hull had a winning record of 4-2. Hull played singles at Sectionals and advanced to the second round but suffered a tough defeat to the number one player in the tournament. Also advancing to the second round were Tony Young and Todd Kobrinski.

TAKING SMALL STRIDES

When the season began all track participants knew they had a tough time ahead of them, but both teams made the best of a rough situation.

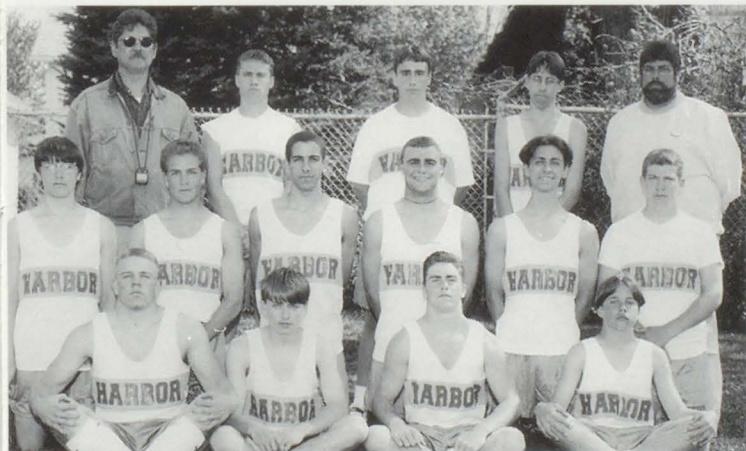

Though both teams were small a lot of talent lied within. The girls team had strength on the relay teams. The boys also had relay strength. The 4x800 meter relay team consistantly dropped their time and they had a lot of good times with their middle distance runners. Sophomore Matt Lynagh was one of the best 400m and 800m runners in the NEC. Lynagh placed at the NEC and district meets and moved on to the Regional Meet. Lynagh took home the boys MVP trophy. Junior Mike Josson registered his best 800m time ever at Pymatuning Valley. Junior Amy Balmford also had a great season in the 300m hurdles. All of her hard work and determination paid off as she received the female MVP trophy.

The teams were ransacked with injuries, which made their season all the more difficult. Junior Otis Sandidge went down with a knee injury. Fellow junior Christina Kachersky's season was cut short due to a reoccurring foot injury that resulted in surgery.

Though the teams were often times in the hole to start competition they still worked hard, stuck together and pulled each other out.

Excellence on Deck

"Our Youth, Our Future, Our Responsibility." The Academic Boosters strived to be responsible and promoted education at Harbor. Composed of dedicated parents, the Boosters sponsored many activities for the students.

Designed to reward students for academic success, the Academic Lottery raffled off prizes and cash. Year round the group collected funds and prizes to make it a hit.

Another event was the Honors Breakfast. Two-hundred students who made the honor or merit roll for three nine weeks attended a special breakfast.

At the end of the year Academic Brunch, the Boosters provided decorations as well as rewarded each valedictorian with a scholarship. Each senior who met requirements for an honors diploma received a medal from the boosters.

By rewarding and encouraging the students, the Boosters helped to keep excellence afloat at Harbor.

Harbor's Helpers Volunteer Their Time

Delivering messages, sorting lunch tickets, collecting attendance, taking phone messages... Those were just a few of the daily tasks for which the office aides volunteered their study hall time. No, being an office aide was not just to get out of study hall.

Guidance office worker Lindsay Ambridge felt that working is very beneficial to students. "It's a good opportunity. You get to know the counselors better, so they can help you with college information," she stated.

Secretaries Jane Planisek, Nancy Acierno and Joy Hassett all agreed that Harbor runs much more smoothly with the help of the aides. Planisek raised the question, "How can we live without office aides?"

Sun Shines On Harbor Academics

New academic changes emerged at Harbor High. Dismissal at 2:00 was a positive adjustment for high school students. The learning process paved the way for them to use the knowledge they acquired through 185 school days.

Social studies gave students a variety of subjects to study ranging from world maps, diverse cultures and climates to a 105-year timeline. World History students experienced ancient civilizations and the impact they created in their times. Students also witnessed African scenery and lifestyles.

Environmental Science became a new edition to the science department. Teachers, as well as students, learned step by step the facts of this unique class. Along with Biology, they participated in the Walnut Beach clean-up and experimented with water-soil testing. In Biology, animal and organ dissections dominated the classroom.

Health gave students the opportunity to learn more about themselves as well as the world around them. Physical education taught freshmen and sophomores the importance of staying fit and keeping a positive attitude through exercise.

Distant Lands

In the foreign language classes and clubs, partying became an art form. As always, the Spanish and French classes celebrated Mardi Gras and united to exchange cuisine. Field trips took members to neighboring cities and even overseas.

In September the French Club held initiations, and in the spring Carole Swogger took members on the club's second consecutive trip to France with a side trip to London. They celebrated Christmas with French cuisine and carols. The classes also had their annual Mardi Gras wall decorating contest (French II won). During a trip to the Cleveland Museum of Art, Lindsay Ambridge stated, "I really liked this field trip because we got to interact with other French students and see French paintings."

The Spaniards had even more parties, celebrating Carnival and also decorating their walls. This year's field trip took the club to Youngstown State University's Ballet Folklorico of Mexico at Stambaugh Auditorium. Speaking for the freshman, Mike Publicover explained why he took Spanish: "I had taken some Spanish in grade school, so I decided to go with it because I already knew some!"

Kathy Kaura made her German students bratwurst for their year's end celebration. The excursion the club took was to the West Side Market in Cleveland, an old ethnic market where vendors sell fruits, vegetables, pastries, and many different types of food.

Wood Work

The sound of saws and the smell of sawdust filled the halls of the B building through the year. With the help of their advisor, Ty McCunn, the Industrial Arts classes spent time putting their creative ideas to good use. Anything from chairs to chess boards were the products of the students' hard work. Student Joe Campbell stated, "We made many interesting projects with the help of our fearless leader."

Teachers and students alike gobbled hot dogs, chili and chips at the annual Christmas cookout the day before Christmas break. McCunn provided the grill, charcoal and his expertise on barbecuing.

On Fridays, students enjoyed listening to some of McCunn's favorite tunes on eight track while they worked. Ben Sedmak remarked, "Mr. McCunn's a nutty guy. At the beginning of the year, he asked if anyone owned a Meatloaf eight track. I guess he has been looking for it for a long time."

VOTE FOR ME...art club elections were held at the beginning of the year. Candidates running for office made signs and hung them around the school to increase their chances of winning the election.

The annual art club field trip took place on Feb. 24. Art students traveled to Youngstown State University and visited the Burton Museum of American Art and the McDonough Museum.

While touring the Burton

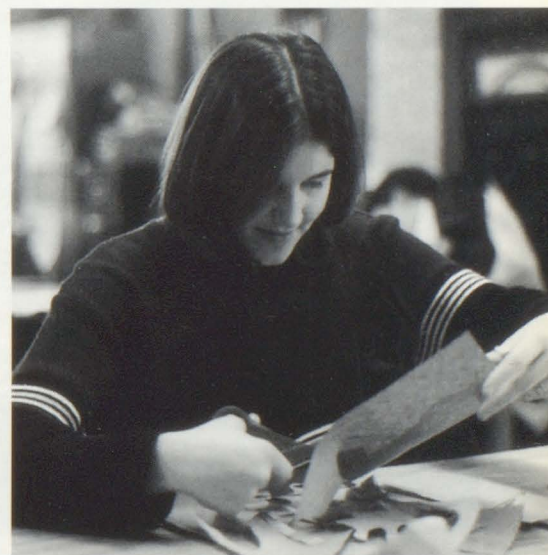

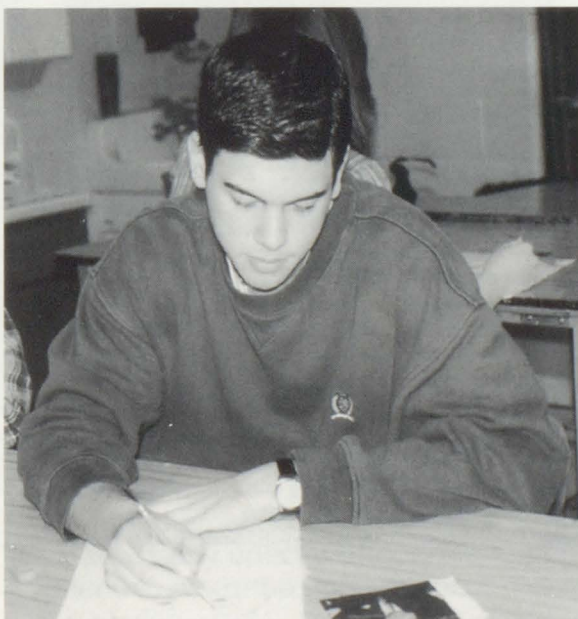

Museum, students enhanced their knowledge on American artists such as Georgia O'Keeffe and Andy Warhol. The Scholastic Regional High School Show was on display at the McDonough Museum. At the McDonough, club members viewed the work of many high school and junior high school artists. Mike Bernato, Terry Ginn, Andy Hull, Todd Kobrinski, Nick Sass, Steve Takach and Sara Taylor had their artwork on display in the show.

Two juniors and a freshman earned recognition for their work. Andy Hull, an Art III student, had two paintings entered in the contest. They received a gold key and a silver key. Todd Kobrinski, another Art III, student won a silver key and Art I student Terry Ginn earned a gold key.

Brilliant Calculations

Seniors who teamed up to form the Calc Club brainstormed many different ideas as well as a new motto: "Semper Fieldes Calculus" (Always Faithful to Calculus). Meeting daily first period, the club's major emphasis was preparing for college entrance exams.

Members of the Calc Club enjoyed trivia games and social activities, such as the field trip to McDonald's. "I try to make the class fun because it's an advanced placement course and the students work hard everyday," stated Barb Josson, Calc Club advisor.

In the Business Club's annual fall Volleyball Tournament, the football players defeated the faculty for the first time ever. Funds raised from the tournament went towards the club's Cleveland trip in the spring.

The tournament introduced tug-of-war games. Art Club, Industrial Arts, JOGS, TI and Business Club tested their strengths between the matches. The Business Club triumphed as the overall winner!

Seven years and still going strong! "Harbor Happenings is an upbeat, creative way to get the news out," commented news anchor Molly Sorohan.

The show featured sports, FYI's, trivia questions and the most famous "Interesting Places." Guest anchors were on every now and then, and throughout the year clubs made many special announcements to inform the students about upcoming events.

The newest addition to the announcements was the logo painted on the wall. Designed by junior Andy Hull, the logo came to life under the brushes of seniors MacKenzie Salo, Lindsay Ambridge and Megan Kaydo. "It spiced up the announcements, and it caught the students' eye. It really brightened up the morning," stated Mike Gardner.

The Maiden Voyage of The Mariner

"What page are we on?" "When is this due again?" "Who has a picture?" These are questions that were asked every day in every class at Harbor, but in Encie Moroski and Jane Planisek's English Elective class, these questions had loaded meaning. A stranger to the class might have been overwhelmed upon walking into the room, given the flurry of activity and multitude of tasks done every day.

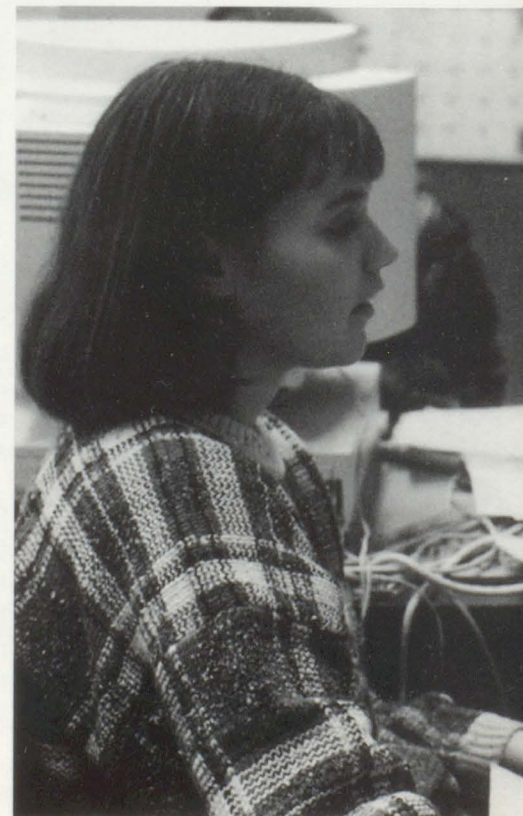

Other common questions included "Who's on Bob?" and "Is free copy suspended this week?" "How many hundreds of dollars did you get last night?" Yes, members of yearbook will always look back with a smile at the charter English Elective class. We were the guinea pigs. We had fun shaping the rules and breaking them. We were truly the eyes and ears of Harbor High.

Sea of Success

Vo-Ed gave students first-hand experience

First-hand experience was an important element to all of the sailors at ACJVS (Ashtabula County Joint Vocational School). Students at the Vo-Eds sailed into the direction of success. With many different career opportunities to choose from, the vocational school offered students a choice in their education.

President of CBE (Cooperative Business Education), Lori Donato was pleased with her decision to attend the Vo-Ed. "It was different than high school. I got to learn more. I actually got to go out into the work force."

By being in the work force, attaining first hand experience, and starting a career right out of high school, the sailors on the ship ACJVS were ready for the rough waters on the Sea of Success.

Participation Sails High

Dressing as the Grim Reaper, senior Tim Mackynen poses with junior Jodi May to display the red ribbons that TI members wore during Red Ribbon week.

Participation sailed high with clubs and activities. From choir to Ski Club, students took the opportunities to get involved as much as possible.

The clubs worked hard for good causes through food and clothing drives, family adoptions at Christmas and other successful fundraisers. At the same time, everyone enjoyed each moment spent in making the community a brighter place.

Interacting with people of different grade levels was a positive factor that numerous clubs and activities provided.

"It's interesting to know what other people are thinking.

It's also great to meet other people from around the community," commented junior

Riding the Wave of Sound

If life at Harbor were a movie, the band would provide the soundtrack. Every student at Harbor can think of at least one event marked by the strains of the most bouyant, energetic, and literally the loudest organization in our school. The band adds to the excitement of a football game by playing a victorious tune when a player scores. The band is a symbol of Harbor at every parade in the community. Finally, everyone knows that when the band can finally practice outside again, spring has sprung, and the end of the year is in sight.

Band was a class, a club, and a career. The musicians went year-round to keep delivering new music and stellar performances. Once a student was done with a piece, it was time for a new one. "It doesn't feel like a class," said senior Annie Scharf. "It's an experience. You have to feel the music, not just play it."

In other words, every student had to be an artist. Band called upon students to develop beyond rhythm and dynamics to incorporate feeling into the music. Band took talent and discipline. It was also one of the few classes that comes with a built-in group of friends. "After band camp, football games, and enduring Mr. H., you can't help making friends with the people around you," stated Sandi Werman.

Majorettes and Drill Team dressed to impress

Every Friday night during halftime the Mariner Magic marching band stepped onto the field and gave an entertaining performance. There were more than just students with musical instruments. Batons and flags flew through the air as the fans were in awe.

As they do every summer, the drill team and majorettes traveled to Edinboro, P.A. to the F.J. Miller Clinic. They spent several grueling days working on dances and routines. Majorette Captain Valerie Jarvis decided that camp was exhausting. "Camp is always very helpful for the girls, but it is very hard work. It all pays off in the end."

The drill team was a new experience for the five freshmen members. Led by senior captain Siobhan Alexander, the girls improved greatly throughout the season. The team used many different props and added much excitement to the show.

The purchase of new costumes pleased every member of the drill team and the majorettes. They were definitely dressed to impress as they performed a special Rock-n-Roll themed show. Fire batons, beach balls, records, and surf boards were all a part of the number.

The season involves more than just football. Pep assemblies, basketball games and parades are also events they participated in.

Steering the Way

Student Council began to change the tide at Harbor. Focusing on creating a new constitution, establishing communications, and developing a positive school environment, the members met twice a week to work on change.

Developing a constitution was a hard, but worthwhile task. The new constitution set up impeachment procedures and guidelines to make Student Council more productive.

Communications were established within the community, with the school board administration and faculty. Meeting with these groups, the members developed methods to help pass the new school levy, obtain open lunch, and change the parking situation. Although the council developed plans, in the future they will be implemented.

Creating a more positive school environment was the main goal for the year. The council worked to create unity and spirit among the students. Student Council led not only Harbor, but the community in changing the tide.

Taking time to pray, freshman Charles Kachersky, sophomores Christina Baker and Rick Saari participate in "Prayer at the Pole".

FCA Shines On

Prayer at the Pole! It was the beginning of everyday for many students. This activity, encouraged by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes organization, brought new hopes and beliefs to students' faiths. "FCA helped the members believe in God and it helped their performance in school and sports," stated sophomore Kristin Lillvis.

FCA donated their services at the Mother of Sorrows soup kitchen as their community service project. Selling Indians' tickets became a big fundraiser for the organization. All the proceeds from the sale went towards sending athletes to sport camps.

Recognizing the religious achievements of certain FCA members, local FCA schools attended an honorary dinner. A breakfast banquet, at Ashtabula Roller Den, sparked the interest of many FCA members. "The Concert of Prayer" introduced members to a nationally-known guest speaker who discussed a tragedy that brought them closer to their faith.

"FCA had a positive influence on the members. They set good examples for other students in the school," commented Tony Nappi, FCA advisor.

Life Upon the Wicked Stage

Sailing on a musical wave, the choir and Thespians led Harbort to artistic waters.

The first activity for both clubs was electing officers. Sandi Werman was elected president of the choir, with Josh Chorba as Vice-President, Shannon Wise the secretary, Siobhan Alexander the treasurer, and Nick Stroup as freshman representative. Valerie Sircelj was elected president of the thespian club. Andy Hull was Vice President, Becca Sulin was historian, and Mary Kay Rill was secretary.

Choir rehearsals were spent learning music for the three annual concerts: the preview concert, the holiday concert, and the POPS concert. The Madrigals, an extra-curricular group that specializes in stylistic music often sung a capella, performed at each concert as well. "We got a lot of freshmen and they've come a long way since the beginning," stated junior Amy Coutts.

The choir participated in major competitions throughout Ohio. The District Honor Choir (YSU) and the Chamber Choir Festival (Cortland) were held in the beginning of the year. The OMEA District 5 Solo/Ensemble Contest (Warren) and the Ashtabula County All-Choir (KSUAC) finished the group competitions for the year. Shannon Wise attended All-State Choir in Columbus. Choir director Kathleen Milford commented, "This is a capable group and when they're working together, they create a wonderful sound."

The highlight of the Thespian year was the musical South Pacific. In addition, the thespians had the opportunity to see Julius Caesar and Much Ado About Nothing at the Stratford Festival in Ontario. Sandi Werman enjoyed the trip. "My favorite was Much Ado," she said. "I really like comedy." Erica Josson had fun, too, but when asked what she remembered of the trip, stated (for the record) "Mrs. Milford is a horrible driver!"

Criteria for membership into the Teen Institute Club included signing a NO USE OF DRUGS OR ALCOHOL contract. The message was clear as Red Ribbon Week unfolded. The motto was emphasized. . . . Join Hands Together. Be Drug Free as T.I. members joined the traced hands of students in a paper chain around the cafeteria.

Advisor Marjorie Toivola and officers Jessica Miller, Stephanie VanBuren and Samantha Younker kept the 30 active members on a continuous mission. Community service included participation in the county-wide "Just Say NO" parade, a food drive for Catholic Services, and collection of personal items for the AIDS Task Force. Jessica Miller was excited about the T.I.

group! "I loved our new advisor as well as our meetings. We had great guest speakers during the year, and we learned a lot. I'm happy to see so many underclassmen involved in our group!"

The Grim Reaper, played by Tim Mackynen, made a guest appearance during Red Ribbon Week. He took students from class and gathered them in the cafeteria. The students that gathered represented the many victims who are affected in alcohol-related accidents in any given day.

End of the Year Awards were given to Stephanie Rennick, The Most Participant Award, and Jessica Miller, a four-year membership certificate and pin.

With 24 members, AFS kept busy throughout the year with monthly meetings and three luncheons. The members got acquainted with other local AFS members at these luncheons. Guest speakers also came in to talk about their adventures overseas.

Harbor welcomed two exchange students. Hosted by freshman Anthony Keller's family, Yoko Sakamoto came from Japan through the Academic Year in America program. Barbara Messova, who came from Slovakia through the Sister City program, stayed with the Jones family, sophomore Brittiani McNeil's grandparents.

"Harbor is a good school. I really enjoyed choir field trips, concerts and contests," commented Yoko.

"I like Harbor. I enjoyed being a member of Model UN. In my country, we had something similar to debates. They were done in English and Slovakian," stated Barbara.

"The U.S. will veto."

UN is a club dedicated to preaching, compromising, and filibustering. Each of these phrases plays an integral role in UN debate, and the students spend the year learning the nuances of foreign policy. UN is an outlet for students with a flair for politics as each student tries to save the world one conference at a time.

This year's UN got off to a shaky start. Advisor Nancy Franley was unsure if she wanted to undertake the huge responsibility of the club all by herself. Fortunately, Franley teamed up with assistant principal Sylvia Atkinson, and the team pulled itself together to tie for third at their first conference in Jefferson!

The second huge event of the UN year was the Northcoast conference in late March. The team was blessed with sunny days, which added a spark of energy to the debate. The team tied for fifth with Bay and Avon Lake high schools.

The rookies found the experience thrilling. Sophomore Erika Josson commented "I enjoyed meeting people from other countries—especially Canada! I had a great time!" Exchange student Barbora Messova will miss it in Slovakia. "I wish we had a club like that in my country," she stated wistfully. "We have debate clubs, but they are not the same."

The seniors, many of whom had been in UN since their freshman year, were sad to leave the group. "I feel like just yesterday I went to my first meeting ever," says club president Allan Pendleton. "I'm sad to see it end." Move to adjourn.

Sailing the Sea of Knowledge

The members of this year's National Honor Society could laugh. Whether they were baking cookies, grading folders, or watching a Broadway musical, the National Honor Society was a close-knit bunch who operated smoothly and had a lot of fun.

"It was nice because we were so small," says MacKenzie Salo of the original seven NHS members. The highlight of her NHS career was baking and icing over 150 cookies at her house for the Santa Snack sale. "I really got into the spirit of Christmas," she says. By the end of the year, the NHS had grown from 7 members to 27 members. The year culminated in a trip to see the musical Chicago in Cleveland on May 21.

Some of the most accomplished members were accepted to prestigious universities. Jim Publicover headed for Northwestern University in Chicago. Molly Sorohan was accepted into Carnegie Mellon's highly selective musical theater program. Lindsay Ambridge entered Boston University to study archaeology.

Wherever life takes them, NHS members will retain their leadership, scholarship, service and character. They will use these qualities to achieve great things and to become great people.

While watching the other schools compete in the Scholastic Bowl, seniors Jim Publicover, Mike Shiflet and Chad Dale show their "enthusiasm ?!" for academics.

Scholastic Efforts Sighted ...

With "smarties" as their secret weapon and good luck charm, the Academic Team sailed through competitive storms throughout the year.

The brain-teasing began in October with preparation for the scholastic show, It's Academic. The team practiced up to five nights a week until the tape-date in November. In January, Harbor students watched T.V. as captain Jim Publicover, Mike Shiflet and Chad Dale took first place with a score of 500. They competed against two other high schools, Garfield High and Western Reserve.

Certain faculty members challenged the team in several matches after school. "The atmosphere was extremely competitive and both sides had a great desire to win. It was a very close race and neither side was going to concede," commented Mrs. Barb Josson, academic advisor.

At the Scholastic Bowl, nine teams divided into three groups of three and competed. The winner of each group then went on to the finals. With Mike Shiflet as captain, Harbor took fifth place overall. "Some questions were identical to last year's and this was a new experience for our team," stated Josson.

The Air Up There

Ski Club Surfs the New York Snow

When most students were hoping that the snow would not arrive, the members of Ski Club were welcoming it! Every Thursday the parking lot of Kent State University Ashtabula was full of many enthusiastic, "psyched up" skiers and snowboarders.

They loaded the bus and headed to New York's finest ski resort—Peak-N-Peak. On the first scheduled Thursday, the trip was canceled due to poor skiing conditions.

For some members, Ski Club was the most important activity in the week. "It gives me something to look forward to during the week. It's a lot of fun," stated Todd Kobrinski.

The student advisor was junior Justin Calderone, and the advisor was Scott Cantana. Ski Club had 32 members, more than last year.

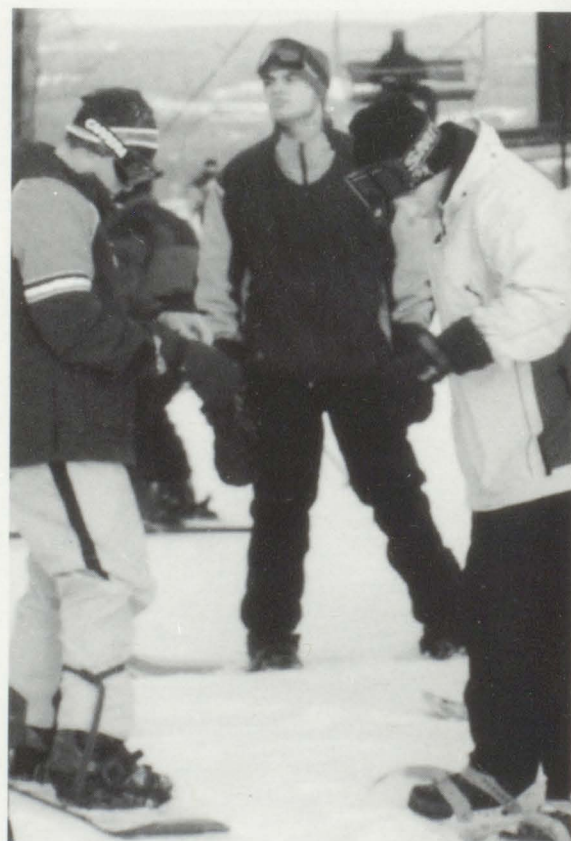

Some of the members participated for all four years of high school. Senior Matt Sutton will miss the club: "I have been in Ski Club for four years. I'll miss it, but I will still continue to snowboard!"

Making Our Mark

From tights and speedos to guitars and computers, Harbor students have made their mark on this community.

Students helped the Harbor area, by donating blood and visiting McDonald's with the Calculus club. Says senior Matt Sutton about the occasionally jaunts to Micky D's: "Calculus is good exercise for both mind and body."

Many students participated in activities outside of school that were community oriented. The Chalk Box and the Arts Center were just a few of the places students went to spend their free time. Sophomore Tessa White says her participation in the Arts Center's "Nutcracker" was "...a labor of love."

Only a portion of each student's life can be presented here, but these shots examine another aspect of life: teenage years in Ashtabula. We dance, we learn, we dive...we ROCK!

One step above the swabs were the sophomore skippers who totaled 173. Junior mates compiled 135 members and the 139 senior captains ruled over all the younger marines.

Second to none, the faculty admirals guided the ship with 59 strong members. Many unique people rocked the Mariner boat and turning the page will reflect the character of the mighty Mariner crew.

ADMIRALS LEAD ANOTHER VOYAGE

Waves washed over Harbor as many changes swept the faculty. New admirals aboard the ship included: Mrs. Sylvia Atkinson (assistant principal); Mrs. Marjorie Toivola and Brian D'Angelo (social studies); Mr. Mike Nappi (Math), Miss Amy Bernower and Mrs. Sue Jennings (science), Miss Regina Petros (guidance counselor), and Mr. Chris Wainwright (study hall monitor).

Admirals for many years, Mrs. Carolyn Hansford (Home-Ec) and Mr. Joe Puchan (social studies), looked on to new horizons as they retired during the school year.

New teachers as well as the old ones learned that being an educator is much more than just teaching from the book and going home at 3:15. Devoting outside time to their students, teachers advised clubs such as Model U.N. and the Thespian club. Teachers often found themselves working weekends and late nights.

Retired teacher Joe Puchan commented, "June, July, and August aren't the only reasons to be a teacher. It's much more than that. One of the many jobs of a teacher is to provide the best learning environment possible from which students can learn."

The Harbor faculty did that and many other jobs throughout the year. As the sun set and another year ended, the memories of the faculty and what they accomplished will linger on forever.

NEW SWABS ON DECK

A new voyage began for freshmen, and anticipation was at high levels. "We were told that upper classmen would push us into lockers and we'd be treated badly, but everyone is really nice to us! I like it here!" spoke Barbara Allen.

Classmates looked forward to Friday night football games where they could spend time together. Homecoming weekend was a new adventure for most. "The first big dance was scary, but it turned out to be lots of fun," commented Amanda Swartout. Jen Williams also said, "It was the best school dance ever!"

New classes, faces, and assignments including the outside reading requirements created a challenge to most. "I didn't like the outside reading. I'm not the type who curls up on a rainy day with a book," pointed out Mike Dewitt. The freshmen were also the first class who needed to pass the science portion of the Ohio Ninth Grade Proficiency Test.

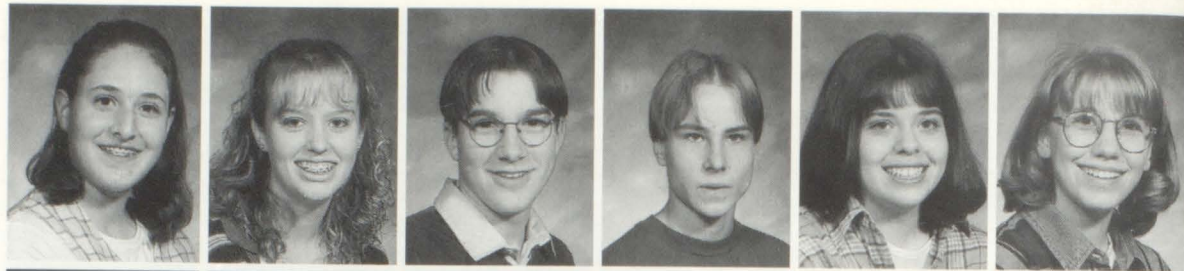

The freshmen sailed through many new experiences. Some were fun and exciting, while others were rough and time consuming; nevertheless, most freshmen enjoyed their first year of high school and anxiously awaited the next.

SEASONED FOR A YEAR ON THE SHIP

At the start of the 1997-98 school year, the young freshmen had to become responsible sophomores. Included in that responsibility are the problems and normal functions of a class.

One responsibility was raising funds for prom. The class held sucker sales and a bake sale at WalMart. A problem the mates encountered was the choice of whether or not to attend the Vo-Ed the following year. Students had many opportunities to visit the campus, and even had a few Vo-Ed students come back to Harbor to speak to them about the advantages of attending the vocational school.

Even with the new found responsibility the class still had time to have fun, and talk about the issues. The main issue being the new school. A large group of students voiced their concern for and against the new high school.

The highlight of their year was taking first place overall in the class tournaments. "It feels good to know that we beat everybody else," exclaimed secretary Jeremy Massucci.

As the year came to a close and the sophomores readied to take on more responsibility and become juniors, they reflected on some of the high points. "My fondest memories were getting in trouble in Spanish class numerous times," commented Chris Gardner. "I liked when the police brought the dogs to school," said Nicole Berg. "Just being with my friends was the best memory," explained class Vice President Julie Parker.

The sophomore class often had important choices that had a definite impact on their future. They couldn't blink for an instant or they could miss the chance of a lifetime!

In Loving Memory of Julia Dee Barnett

*Born September 16, 1980
Died November 17, 1997*

Most didn't understand my sister.

Julia was secure enough in her person that she wasn't about to change for anyone else.

That meant fewer friends at times, but she was strong in her feelings. I remember when Julia was seven and I was five, we'd always go to my grandma's house and I'd watch her do all these things for my grandmother. I'd always want to help, but Julia would say, "You're too little!" When she began at Columbus Jr. High and I'd say, "Hook me up with the girls!"

She'd ask the girls, "Wanna go with my little bro?" I will always love and miss her.

With love from her brother George

To my Loving Julia Dee Barnett,
I remember the day you were born. When I first held you in my arms. I called you my little Jewel. You were so beautiful to me.

I will never forget you, part of me laid down with you to rest. The memory of you lingers in the hearts of everyone who knew you and loved you. Each and every second of the day I pray your gracious soul be lifted higher into His kingdom.

I miss you like crazy, I hope to see you again when I get there. I'll mourn you till I join you.

Love in Christ,
your Dad
Ray Barnett

Julia

I guess they weren't playing when they said life was short.

But yours was too short, only 17.

It's sad that you only made to see it—17.

It's sad you had to go so soon.

It's so hard to think that you was just kickin' it and now you're gone.

I wish I could've said goodbye.

No, I wish you were still here.

But I can't wish you back.

If I could, you would be here.

All I can do now is pray for you, and hope you hear me.

But for now REST IN PEACE and SWEET DREAMS.

R.I.P.

Julia Dee Barnett

-Charmarie Wells

My cousin Julia was my best friend. She was an independent person. She'd let you know what was on her mind, good or bad! I reminisce on all the good times we shared. We used to play "church" on her front porch when we were young. We got together and just talked and talked. I knew her better than most.

She was an angel to me.

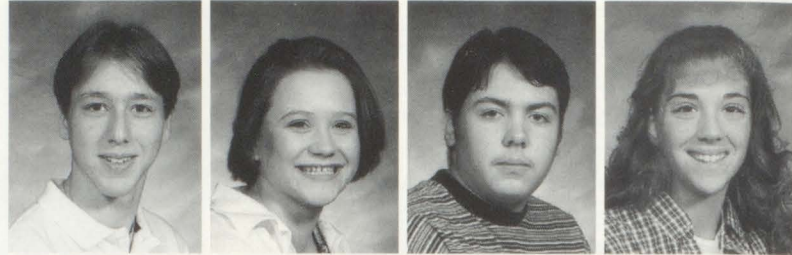

Love always,

MOVING UP THE RANKS

Oh, what a wonderful junior year! The first mates had an eventful schedule. Faced with their first research paper, prom and ACTs/SATs, they suffered many headaches. Yet, they managed.

Blood, sweat, and tears went into many of the research papers, but the result was worth it. Lindsey Wells commented, "My topic helped me for my future as a veterinarian."

"Springtime in Paris" was the prom theme. Pulling together, the first mates raised over $3,000. Vice President, Andy Hull states,

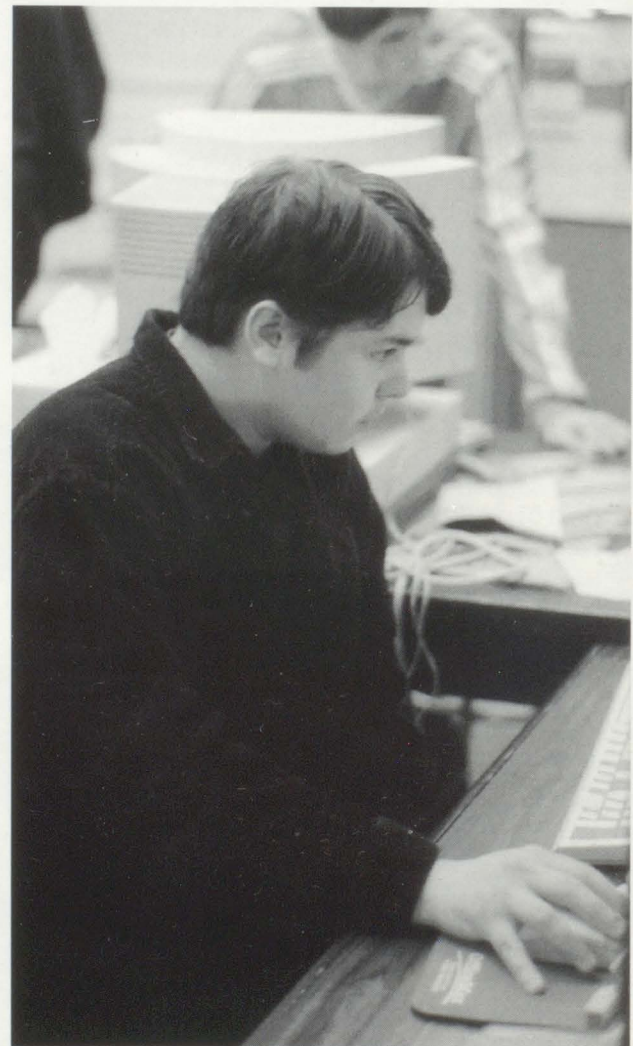

"Raising money is never easy, but once we got organized it was able to be done."

Finally, the choices of their future haunt all juniors. Deciding a future career and getting standardized test scores for college created many dilemmas. Getting up bright and early on Saturday to take a test is never fun, but many met the challenge and did well.

The juniors were busy and the year flew by, but one thing is certain, the first mates are ready to set sail and become seniors.

SAILING AWAY

"May the road rise to meet you, . . ." For the class of 1998, commencement exercises were blessed with two Irish blessings. Held on a steamy June 2 in Fawcett gymnasium, graduation reflected the past, present, and future for the 122 graduating seniors.

The first blessing came from Invocation speaker Tony Young and the second from math teacher Donald Rapose. Rapose spoke to the the grads about the long journey ahead. Other speakers included Steve McClure, president of the school board; Gretchen Krystynak, benediction speaker; and Matt Sutton, senior class president. Sutton presented the class gift of a flag symbolizing Harbor.

Valedictorians Megan Kaydo and Amanda Brayman each developed a theme for their speeches. Brayman spoke on the future, and Kaydo told about the past four years of high school. She commented, "It's fun to look back on all the memories, but it's also sad to think it's over."

As the ceremony came to an end, Sandi Werman led the graduates in one final Harbor Hymn. With the blessing, "May the wind be always at your back,..." the seniors sail away from Harbor.

"We've made it!" The class of 1998 stands proud after receiving their diplomas.

ONE LAST LOOK...

The sun finally set over the class of 1998. Since August 31, 1994, the seniors have been preparing themselves for graduation and beyond. Looking back to that day anchored in their memories, many classmates agree that their school experience was filled with laughter, celebration, and tears in their four years spent beside "Lake Erie's Water Blue."

Senior year is different in many ways. "It flew by! It's been fun...the last few years have gone by way too fast," stated Rob Lawwill. "I had more fun [this year] than all the other years," agreed Brad Best. But with the fun of senior year came a lot of responsibility. Students struggled to figure out what they would do with the rest of their lives. "There was a lot of pressure," stated Best, referring to college applications and standardized tests. However, "it was more exciting because I knew I was getting out sooner," pointed out Megan Kaydo.

"Watch where you point that thing!"
Danielle Wood and Mindy Marino crack up before the tug-of-war.

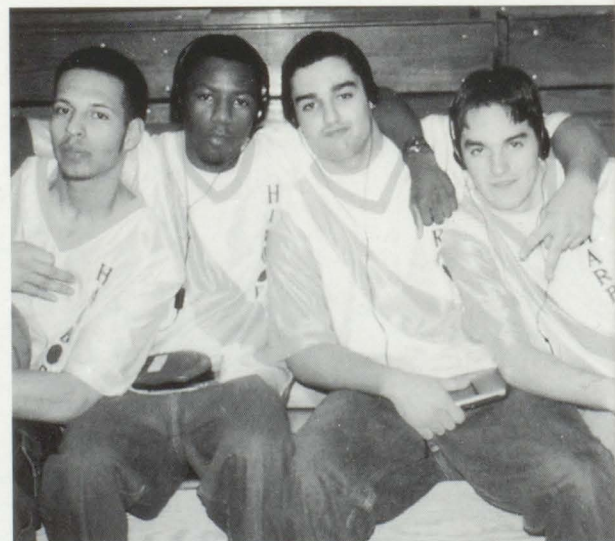

The class of '98 went through a lot. "The class really came together," stated Andria Juhola. They were rowdy, ram-bunctious and at times overly spontaneous, but they finished the year laden with success. The baseball team had scouts from major leagues attending the games, and 66% of HHS graduates went on to colleges as close as Kent or as far as Boston. Many received scholarships. NHS scholarship winner MacKenzie Salo commented, "Receiving the scholarship makes me realize that all my hard work and frustration really did pay off."

For the graduating class saying goodbye was the hardest. To upcoming seniors, class president Matt Sutton said: "Have fun; don't let your senior year just go by." The class of '98 left their mark. Wherever they go, they will always take a piece of Harbor with them.

SAILING TOWARD TRADITION

In September the Senior Women once again organized and decorated for the 1997 Homecoming dance, and the Senior Men contributed to their effort by once again purchasing the punch.

Traditionally, the busiest time of year for the clubs is Christmas. The highlight of the season was purchasing and decorating the tree for the main hallway. Once the tree was forced into its stand, the men resurrected the traditional ornaments that graced past branches. The Senior Women contributed to the effort when they dressed up the tree using the Christmas bulbs they created with the help of advisor Lisa Martino. After all their hard work the women relaxed at a Christmas party hosted by Martino.

To end their year, the Senior Women purchased commemorative sweatshirts with the year and all the members' names on it.

Tradition may be considered boring for some, but it is what makes great memories year after year!

-Michael Gardner

JOGS ON THE SHORE

Planning for the future with the help of advisor, Maureen Mottley, the 39 students in JOGS had a productive year.

At the annual regional competition held at Kent Ashtabula, JOGS officers from various high schools debated for positions as county-wide coordinators. Seniors John Tiscenko and Heather Carter both won regional positions. Tiscenko became the county-wide coordinator of social affairs, and Carter became county-wide coordinator of career preparation.

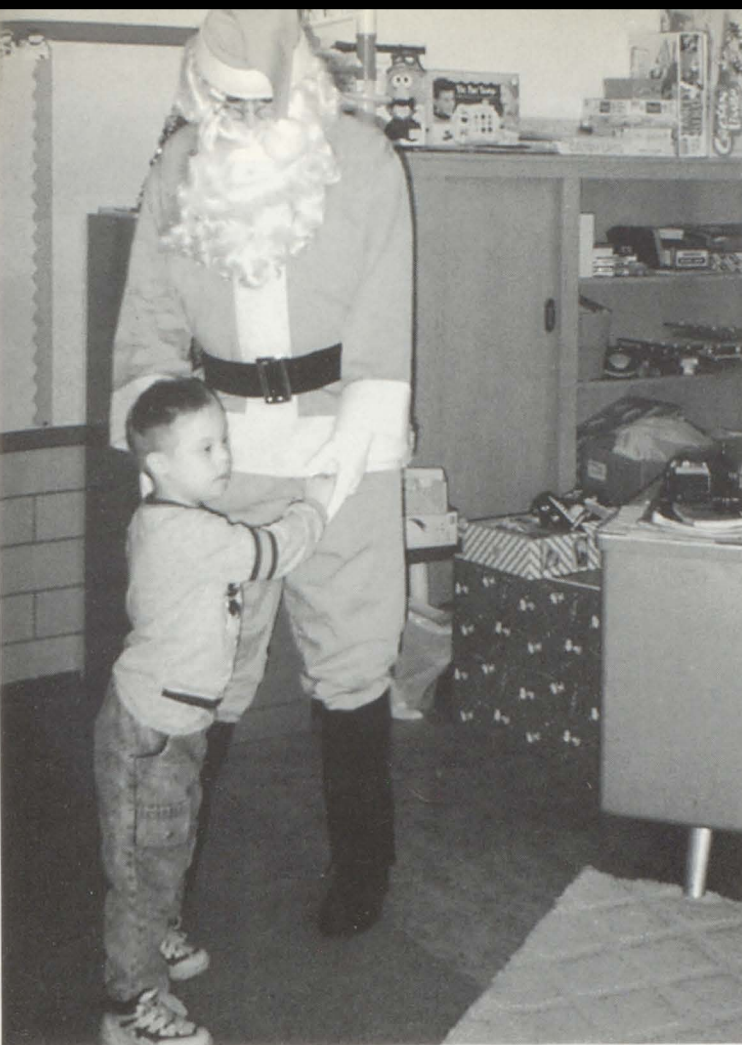

Filling out college applications and doing career planning activities was not all the JOGS class participated in. They sponsored a pie sale, a canned food drive, seasonal trips to Happy Hearts, a "Slave for a Day" fundraiser and a bake sale. The most memorable activity for Tiscenko was the Christmas trip to Happy Hearts. "Being Santa was a lot of fun. When the kids come up to you and say they love you, it gives you a great feeling. I'll never forget the expressions on their faces when they saw 'Santa,'" stated Tiscenko.

When asked what she thought of the year, senior Missy Gillespie replied, "I really enjoyed being in JOGS because it was a comfortable environment for learning and gaining experience. It wasn't a typical classroom."

-Todd Kobrinski

Dancing the "Christmas Waltz" with a student at Happy Hearts School, senior John Tiscenko enjoys being Santa for the day.

From the Mariner
Yearbook Staff

Sleepy sophomores watch anxiously as their classmates lead them to victory at class tournaments.

(right) An unknown mariner looks to the West as the day waves goodbye.

WITH GRATITUDE...

As the sun sets on yet another school year, it is important that we ALL remember the business community who supported us.

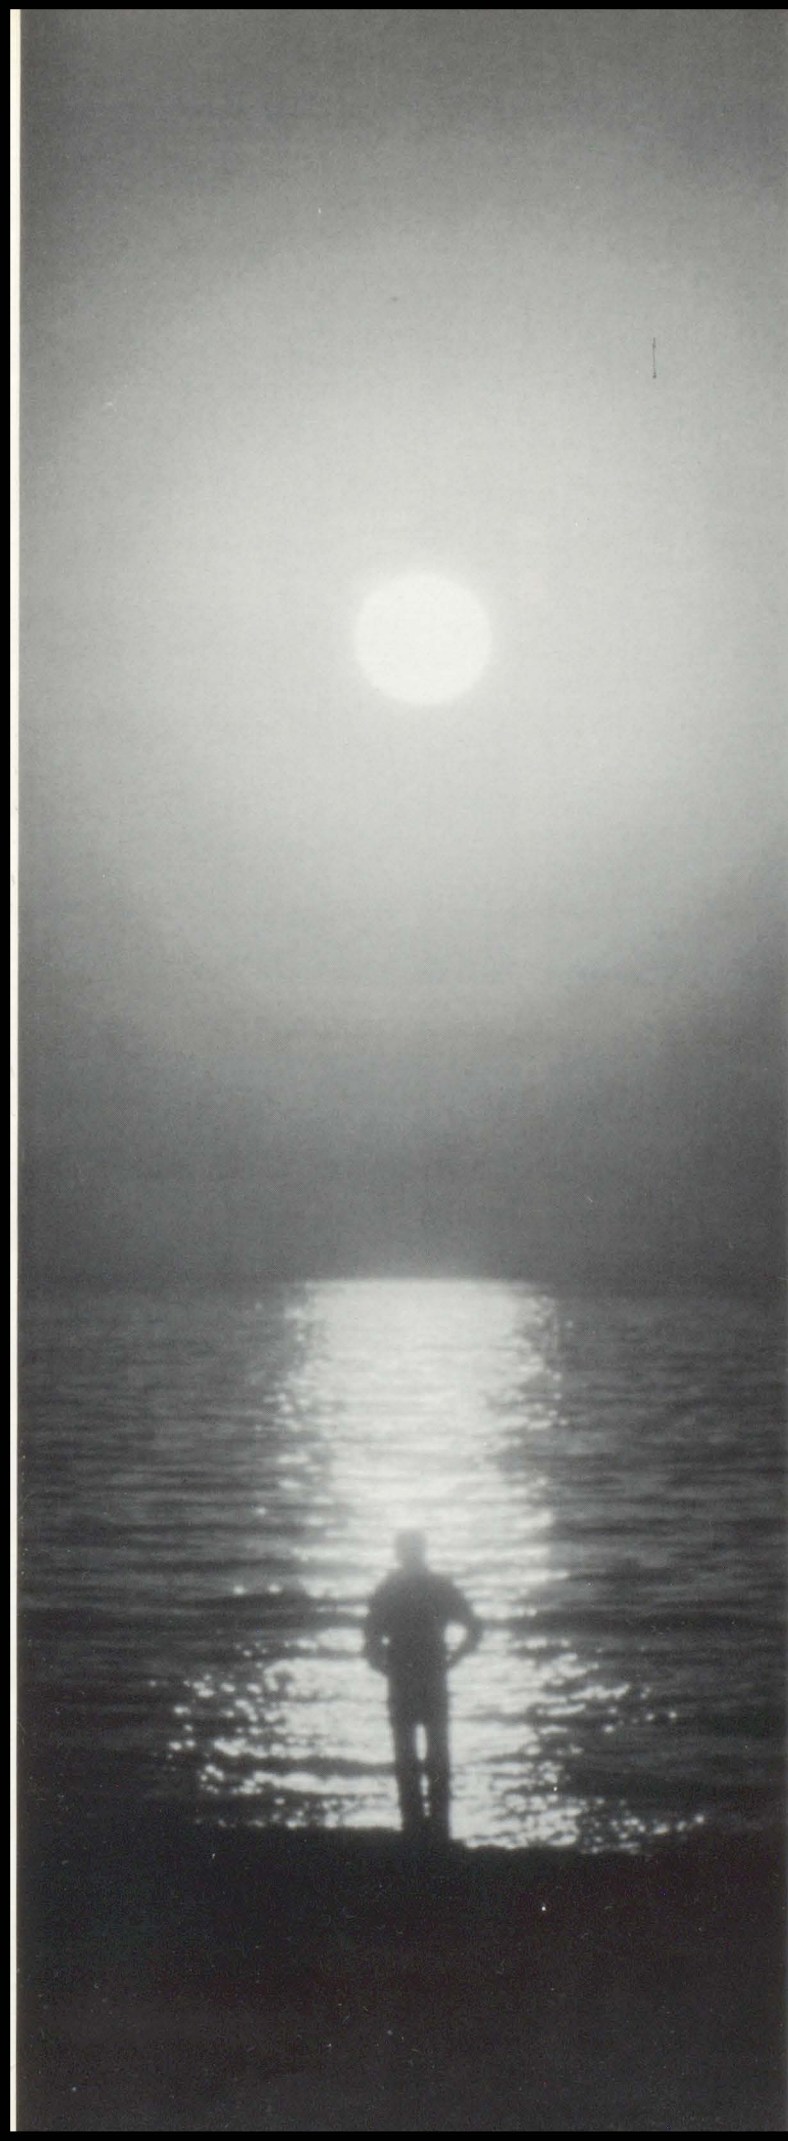

Advertisers, on the following pages, not only purchased ads but supported our students with discount prices, special promotions through the music department and JOGS, as well as patronage of our drama and musical productions.

The "sun continued to rise" over Mariner Publications because of the continued support throughout the community!

-Shelley Prisco

Leaving Harbor behind for the day, students pile on the bus to head home.

(bellow) Willing the Edgewood pitcher to error, Doug Mescho clenches the fence as the game stays tied 0-0.

The student body watches together as the academic lottery comes to an end.

A site most students can recognize, Lake
Erie at sundown.

Nearing the End

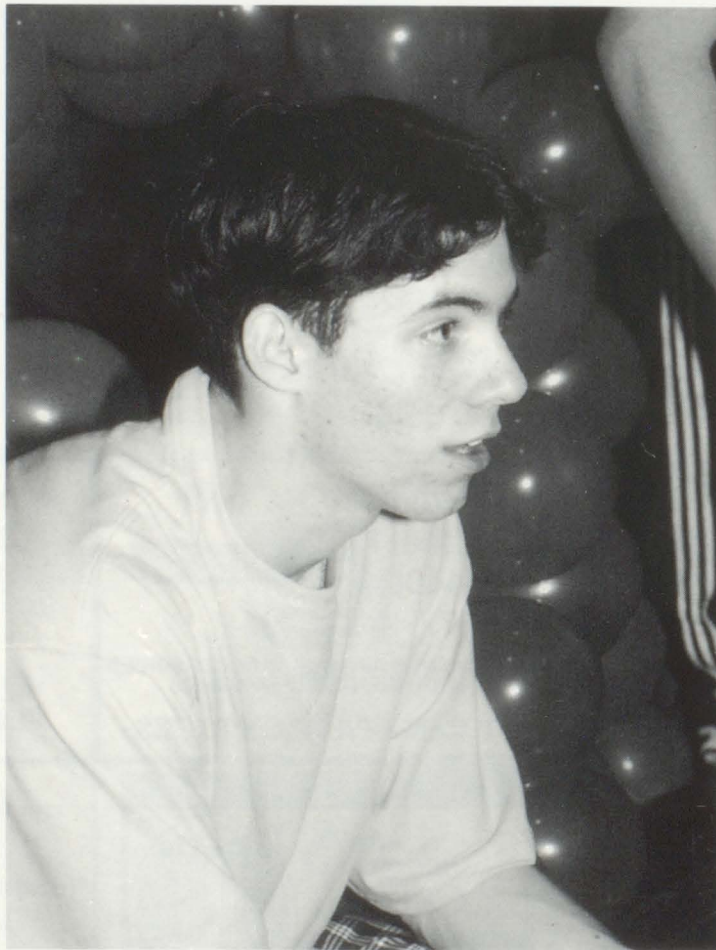

Turning in finals.
Finishing touches.
Cleaning out lockers.
Retiring parking passes.

If only the walls of Harbor could talk, the memories of final days and days passed that they would recall are priceless. The times spent cramming, arguing, laughing, gossiping, and, of course, stressing will always be remembered by the class of 1998.

With the arrival of summer, seniors broke eagerly from the confines of Harbor walls. As vagabond papers blew across the deserted halls, they prepared to start a new chapter in their lives, while underclassmen looked forward to a funfilled vacation.

Many sunsets lie ahead for the seniors whether they be over teeming cities or secluded suburbs, distant lands or here on the shores of Lake Erie.

-MacKenzie Salo

"Where's the war?" asks Fred Schwenker. Although he is only in the gymnasium, he feels like he is in the jungle.

COLOPHON

"Sunrise on the Harbor", the 1998 Mariner yearbook, was printed by Herff Jones Yearbooks in Shawnee Mission, Kansas. Press run was 325 copies for Volume 86. Mark Potteiger served as company representative. Mrs. Jane Planisek and Mrs. Encie Moroski advised the publication. The cover and theme were chosen at a summer workshop in Middleberg Heights. The four color lithographic cover contains two additional colors; pearlescent iris and gold. The cover is overgrained with a brush grain. The end sheet-S/F/S is printed in black ink on mist paper. The text paper is 80 bound bordeaux. Full color pictures are featured in the opening, fads and fashions, musical and homecoming sections.

The body type was Helvetica, the caption type was Times New Roman, the headline types were Architecture, Aristocrat, Betram, Cosmic Two, Lucida Calligraphy, Obodoni-Open and President. The folio type was Times New Roman.

Yearbooks were sold for $30 until Nov. 27, 1997, $35 until Spring break, and $40 until the end of the year. The publication was financed by $5,500 in advertizing sales. Robin Campbell was top seller of ads with over $1,000 sold. Other top sellers included: Shelley Prisco, MacKenzie Salo, Danielle Wood, Molly Sorohan, and Jennifer Swickard, each selling over $500 in ads.

The staff would like to thank Mrs. Nancy Acierno for running class lists, Barbian Studios for their photography and film, Mr. Jim Matthews, Star Beacon photographer, and a class in photography.

This was the first year to do a yearbook production completely on a computer! Thank you yearbook staff members for a job well done!

A Note from the Advisors...

What fun it was to take MacKenzie Salo, Heather Burnside, and Mia DiAngelo to a summer workshop August of '97. We had two short days to learn what we could about a yearbook production and the car was bubbling with ideas as we rode home! After sharing those ideas with the publications class, the yearbook ladder (page set-up) quickly took form.

The work began. We found the staff hungry for news, but even more hungry for the cafeteria soft pretzels. The junk food kept our class alive and productive! It was a "growing year" for advisors as well as staff, as this was the first yearbook to be done completely on the computer. Computers "Dave" and "Bob" were continually in use.

Our editor, MacKenzie Salo, left us with one important thought. "Being RESPONSIBLE is the most important lesson to be learned when putting together a yearbook." We thank our Mariner Publications staff for working together, being responsible, and producing another great Mariner yearbook.

A Note from the Editor...

What can I say about this bunch of yearbook staffers? ROWDY!! I thank you all for your hard work and cooperation. We made an excellent yearbook even though all of us were rookies. I would like to give a special thank you to Robin for coming in and finishing the book with me and for listening to me rant and rave. Hopefully we'll get to White Turkey and you'll learn how to spell s-e-n-i-o-r-s!

...MacKenzie Salo
